Introduction

This is the 1987 edition of Selected Financial and Related Data for California Public Schools. This edition includes a new chapter that contains information on certain categorical programs. Since there are close to a hundred categorical programs, or subdivisions of programs, we have not included data for all of those programs in the current edition. The tables that have been added are intended to make Selected Financial and Related Data more useful and represent another step in our continuing commitment to expand this publication into a comprehensive source document for those who need accurate school finance data presented in a summary format.

We invite your suggestions and comments on how this publication might be expanded or improved and request that they be directed to:

Most of the financial statistics displayed in this publication are for fiscal year 1985-86 or show 1985-86 as the most recent year in a multiyear table. This is because 1985-86 was the most recent year for which we have complete (as opposed to estimated) data. The "books" are just now closing on fiscal year 1986-87, and this information will be reported to the Department during the coming year for inclusion in next year's Selected Financial and Related Data.

Fiscal year 1983-84 was the first year of implementation for Senate Bill 813, the Hughes-Hart Educational Reform Act of 1983, and the reader may discern the initial fiscal impact of this sweeping reform measure in the figures for later years. Since a number of the reforms and programs established by Senate Bill 813 were implemented over several years, the full financial impact of SB 813 is not reflected in any one year change in revenues or expenditures.

The financial data contained in this document were compiled from annual financial reports submitted to the Department by local educational agencies (forms J-41,J-380, J-41A, J-73,J-580 and J-73A). Every effort was made to ensure that the reports of all active California school districts and county offices of education were included in this summary. This information is, however, only as accurate as the data received, and the reader should note that this information had not been audited at the local or state level by the time it was received. The general, nonfinancial data contained in this document were derived from a number of different reports also submitted by local agencies.

Classification of income and expenditures used in this statistical report are in accordance with the California School Accounting Manual unless otherwise noted. For more detailed financial data, derived from the same source documents, the reader may wish to consult the Annual Report of Financial Transactions Concerning School Districts and Community College Districts of California, which is published for each fiscal year by the State Controller.

Part VI - School District Summary Data 91

Table

VI-1 Selected Financial Statistics on California Public School Districts, by County and by District, 1985-86 92

Part I
General Statistics

The tables displayed in Part I of this document present general or demographic information which, while relevant to school finance, are not strictly financial. Information on the number and type of California school districts and schools are intended to provide the reader with an appreciation of the size of California's educational system for kindergarten through grade 12. Information on enrollment and average daily attendance (ADA) add to the understanding of size while providing the reader with the basic workload statistics which are most frequently used for distribution of funds. Additional information on the length of the school year and the numbers and average salaries of staff are particularly relevant to school reform initiatives that seek to increase instructional time, avert potential teacher shortages, and reduce class size. These tables present only the most summary basic data and are by no means exhaustive of the available general information. For additional general statistics, the reader may wish to consult the Department publication titled Selected Education Statistics, California Public and Private Schools.

Much of the information in Part I was compiled from the California Basic Educational Data System (CBEDS) and has not been audited or otherwise verified. The average daily attendance (ADA) used in these tables is "annual" data which may be compiled before local audits are completed for all districts. The reader should note that CBEDS's data are annually collected in October and are, therefore, "point-in-time" information as contrasted with "annual average" data such as ADA. This means that ADA may exceed enrollment when a net increase in enrollments occurs after October.

In future editions of Selected Financial and Related Data the Department may include new tables of general statistics reflecting concerns appropriate to the time of publication.

Note: Enrollment figures are as of October for all fiscal years, whereas average daily attendance figures are cumulative from July 1 through June 30. Since enrollment data exclude certain pupil categories, the same categories are excluded from the a.d.a. data in order to make valid comparisons. The excluded a.d.a. categories are adult education, ROC/P, summer school, extended year programs, special education for nonpublic schools, and state hospital students in special day classes. Both statistics include county office attendance excluding tuition fund a.d.a. and the categories listed above. Because of these exclusions, the data in this table cannot be compared with other a.d.a. in this document.

* The legal minimum is 175 days.

 In 1985-86 there were 1,028 school districts. There were 59 schools that had approval to operate a different number of days than the rest of the schools in their districts because of emergency conditions or other considerations. Data entry guidelines for attendance documents make it necessary to report the data for these schools as separate districts for this table.

Note: "Averages" displayed in this table are simple mean averages which may be significantly affected over time by hiring practices that accentuate one end of the range. For example, the hiring of a large number of new teachers at the first step of the range will tend to reduce the average, while a clustering of senior teachers at the top end of the range may inflate the average.

Table I-17

Part II
Income

Public school income is derived from local, state, and federal sources and is often characterized by source. While most income may also be considered revenue, there are some nonrevenue sources of income. The reader should consult Part III of the California School Accounting Manual for the definitions of terms that are used in these tables of revenues and expenditures.

The tables and displays of Part II provide summary aggregate data for all public school districts and county offices of education in California as reported to the Department of Education. The reader is cautioned to carefully examine the descriptions of the data on each table. For example, tables 3, 4, 5, and 9 contain information pertinent only to local general funds including individual districts' General Funds and County School Service Funds. Local general funds should not be confused with the State General Fund from which most state appropriations are made. Local general funds may include income from state, local, and federal sources, including income provided for general or specified purposes (both basic and categorical). Local general funds do not include income to other local funds, a listing of which may be found in Table II-7.

Several tables in Part II refer to revenue limits, which are described in the note under Table II-16. Composed of both state and local general purpose revenues, the revenue limit is the single most important element of school finance in California.

Note: The data in table II-16 are the bases for tables II-17 through II-23. These tables chart the base revenue limit closure for school districts categorized as small elementary (less than 101 a.d.a.), large elementary (more than 100 a.d.a.), small high school (less than 301 a.d.a.), large high school (more than 300 a.d.a.), small unified (less than 1,501 a.d.a.), large unified (more than 1,500 a.d.a.), and all districts combined.

The revenue limit was introduced in the early 1970's in response to the original "Serrano" decision. Prior to 1972, school districts' revenues for general operating purposes varied dramatically. The California Supreme Court upheld a lower court finding that these variations related to local property wealth and constituted an unconstitutional violation of pupils' rights to equal educational opportunities. The Legislature responded to the Serrano decision by establishing base revenue limits per unit of a.d.a. for all school districts based on districts' then-current funding levels and by providing for closure among base revenue limits per unit of a.d.a. over time. An examination of Table II-23 reveals that 50.7 percent of the students (as shown by the state's a.d.a. figures) were enrolled in school districts having base revenue limits per unit of a.d.a. within $100 of one another in 1974-75. By 1986-87, 95.4 percent of the students were in school districts having base revenue limits per unit of a.d.a. within $227 of one another; i.e., the $100 standard applied in 1974-75 adjusted for inflation as measured by the California Consumer Price Index.

Part III
Expenditures

Public school agencies' budgeting and accounting systems include a variety of funds, but the General Fund is common to all operating districts and the equivalent County School Service Fund is common to all county offices of education. This section stresses expenditures of these "general" funds, but Table III-15 also presents expenditures of other funds. The California School Accounting Manual provides for the uniform classification of expenditures which is consistent for the several funds.

Expenditures are presented in terms of object of expenditure. Object classifications are for the most part self-explanatory, such as "teachers' salaries," "textbooks," or "pupil transportation supplies." The seven major object of expenditure classifications that public school agencies must account for are: (1) 1000-Certificated Salaries; (2) 2000-Classified Salaries; (3) 3000-Employee Benefits; (4) 4000-Books and Supplies; (5) 5000-Services and Other Operating Expenditures; (6) 6000-Capital Outlay; and (7) 7000-Other Outgo. The tables in Part III present dollar amounts for the several objects of expenditure, the amount per unit of average daily attendance, and the percent of total expenditures each amount represents.

California's ranking, in comparison to other states, on measures of "expenditures per pupil" has become a topic of some interest in recent years. This issue is sometimes confused by different definitions of "current expense," and Table III-13 attempts to avoid this confusion by providing the three major definitions used in discussions of California. There are two nationwide agencies that collect this information and compute rankings, and the definitions used by these agencies are shown along with a statutorily defined "current expense," which is unique to California. The California definition is the most limited of the three, and its statutory definition may be found in Section 41372 of the Education Code. This definition is used uniformly throughout California but does not necessarily conform to definitions used in other states. To make national comparisons, one must use one of the definitions of the nationwide ranking agencies. The federal Department of Education's Center for Education Statistics (CES) incorporates all of the expenditures in the California definition and then adds other local expenditure items as shown. The National Education Association (NEA) Research Division disregards certain CES exclusions but then adds certain statewide expenditures that cannot be related to particular school districts. Because of these statewide expenses, current expense per pupil cannot be calculated for individual school districts using the NEA definition. Current expense can be calculated for individual districts under the state and CES definitions, and the results of these calculations are shown in Part VI.

It should be noted that expenditures take time to record, verify, and compute in "final" form. It generally takes several months after the end of a fiscal year to "close the books" and make any audit adjustments. Because ranking comparisons must be current to be useful to policymakers, many reported rankings are based upon estimates of expenditures that are frequently prepared before the year is actually ended and all of the expenditures actually made. These estimates can be useful, but it should always be understood that they are "subject to change." This edition of Selected Financial and Related Data contains expenditures for no year later than 1985-86. This information was reported as "actual" after the books were closed but before audit adjustments, if any, were made.

"Current Expense of Education" includes expenditures of the following classifications as defined in the California School Accounting Manual: 1000-Certificated Salaries; 2000-Classified Salaries; 3000-Employee Benefits; 4000-Books and Supplies; 5000-Services and Other Operating Expenditures; 6500-Equipment Replacement. Expenditures for the following programs are excluded from the preceding classifications: Food Services, Community Services, Fringe Benefits for Retired Persons, Facilities Acquisition and Construction.

"Total Expense of Education" includes expenditure classifications 1000-5000, as defined above, plus classification 6000, Capital Outlay. The exclusions listed for the "current expense" definition above are not excluded from this definition, but only general fund expenditures are shown.

Figures for 1959-60 and 1969-70 include community college districts, which slightly inflates "All Districts" expenditures per unit of a.d.a. for those years.

Part IV
SPECIAL EDUCATION MASTER PLAN

The tables in Part IV present general data on special education funds from the onset of the Master Plan for Special Education in 1980-81 through the 1985-86 fiscal year. In the base year, each reporting entity received support services ratios, local general fund contributions, and unit rates, as appropriate, according to the reported data and calculations specified in law. Those entities coming into special education after the base year received the statewide averages of the support services ratios and unit rates. Because of the abundance of data, most of these tables will include statewide averages.

Table IV-1 shows the total calculated (net) entitlements, the appropriation amounts, deficit amounts, deficiency appropriations, and remaining deficits. In the 1980-81 fiscal year, transportation and regionalized services were included in the instructional program entitlements. From 1981-82 through 1983-84, transportation had separate entitlement programs. In 1984-85 and subsequent fiscal years, special education transportation was consolidated into the regular transportation funding mechanism.

Table IV-2 shows the Unduplicated Pupil Counts by setting, the number of funded units, and the statewide average loading per unit.

Tables IV-3 through IV-5 include the statewide average unit rates (with cost of living adjustments), support services ratios, and local general fund contributions per unit of average daily attendance.

Part V
Categorical Programs

Traditionally a distinction is made in public school finance between "general" and "categorical" school aid. This distinction centers around the degree to which the use of funds is restricted by the appropriating authority. In theory, general aid is expended at the discretion of the local school district governing board with few state controls, except those rules that assure the legal expenditure of all public funds. The state portion of base revenue limit funding is considered to be general aid. A categorical program, by contrast, earmarks school aid for one or more purposes and has a prescribed set of standards for the use of funds. Categorical funds are typically targeted towards specified groups of students (population categories) or particular purposes (categories of expenditure). For example, the Miller-Unruh Reading Program provides funds for the employment of reading specialists (a specified purpose), while compensatory education funds are reserved for the provision of supplemental assistance to educationally disadvantaged students (a population group).

Categorical programs have been established by both the state and federal governments and range in size from those programs that have been implemented in almost all districts nationwide to small demonstration or research projects that may affect only one school district. By some definitions, there are more than a hundred categorical programs implemented in one or more California school districts, and it is almost impossible to provide relevant data for each program. In this edition of Selected Financial and Related Data, we have provided information for those programs where the data were most easily retrieved. We recognize that many programs are not yet covered in this chapter, and we intend to add more tabular data in the coming years.

The tables that we have developed for inclusion in this chapter provide information relevant to each program. Some of that information is more statistical than financial, although most of the data are relevant to computation of local agency entitlements or appreciation of the size and scope of the program. We have labeled this information with some care and would advise the reader to avoid the common mistakes of equating appropriations with expenditures, or assuming that "costs" are always fully funded by state or federal sources. The source documents for this varied information are too numerous to list here, but we have attempted to note sources as footnotes in each table.

[2] The number of mentors that districts were entitled to appoint, given available funding.

[3] The percentage of mentor positions that were actually filled during the year.

[4] This is the "entitlement" percentage, representing the average percentage of all eligible teachers that could be appointed as mentors given available funding. Each district's actual percentage varies because entitlements are, by law, rounded up to the next whole mentor position. The maximum average percentage statewide is set at 5.00% by law.

[5] Includes County Offices of Education that are entitled to participate.

[6] The California Mentor Teacher Program was originally authorized by SB 813 in 1983 and was implemented halfway through the 1983-84 year. Mentor stipends and "other cost" allowances were all initiated at half value during this year. Stipends, normally $4,000 each, were only $2,000 in 1983-84.

[2] Information is displayed for actual number of grants made, teachers who were recipients of grants, and school districts that participated during the year shown. County Offices of Education are not legally eligible to participate in this program.

[3] Grants of up to $2,000 may be made to each teacher, but actual grants differ in accordance with individual proposals, This is the sum of actual grant awards made during the year noted.

[4] Participating districts are allowed by law to claim up to 5% of their annual entitlement for actual costs of administration.

[5] Participant data for 1986-87 will not be available until financial reports are returned in autumn, 1987.

[1] By federal law, at least 80% of the total state grant must be set aside for distribution to local educational agencies by formula. The formula must be enrollment based, although district entitlements are weighted for factors such as concentrations of children with special needs and sparsity of population.

[2] California's formula for distribution of local block grants provides each local educational agency with one "point" for each student enrollment. Extra points are provided per special need child, if the concentration of such children in the district exceeds the statewide average.

Part VI
School District Summary Data

Part VI includes information related to individual active school districts in California. It is natural to want to compare individual district data, but the reader should be cautioned that the diversity of California education makes valid comparisons of these numbers extremely difficult. Small school districts, for example, are frequently situated in remote geographical locations with high transportation and utility costs, compounded by adverse weather conditions. Great variations in expenditure patterns may result from the unique programs of districts, regardless of size; and for these reasons, we strongly advise those who would compare expenditures to take the time necessary to understand these differences.

All of the information presented in Part VI was collected for the 1985-86 school year. Average daily attendance (ADA) figures are from the "annual" report (not computational ADA) and do not include classes for adults or county operated programs. For these reasons, the ADA shown here is not comparable to ADA reported in other tables in this document. For definitions of the current expenditure figures shown here for the state and comparative figures from the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), the reader should consult Table III-13.
